Noble Knight

The Noble Knight is the protector of the king.

He is the most noble and selfless knight in all the kingdom, which is why he has the most important task – guarding and protecting the king. The Noble

Knight is originally from England, where the most distinguished task a knight can have is to be at the king's side. Only the most talented and loyal get the chance to become a Noble Knight.

COLLECTION

Liontouch takes swords seriously and this time we wanted to create an abundance of style options, so you can pick exactly the ones you like the most and start your own collection. Some swords may be limited edition and new ones may be added along the way. Throughout the development process, optimization has been our guiding principle. Everything from size to colours to packaging have been designed to optimize production – hopefully resulting in a both great and competitive sword.

The Kingmaker helps to decide who the next king will be. Thinking of the nation's welfare, the Kingmaker uses their political, economic or military means to influence who will be the nation's head of state. The Kingmaker originally comes from England in the area around Warwick but now works all over the world to ensure his country's future.

Triple Lion

The Triple Lion series is based on a magnificent castle in the desolate wilderness. It's here that the Triple Lion king rules, not only as a king but also as a formidable knight. The three golden lions are the king and castle's coat of arms: a lion for courage, a lion for honour and a lion for hope. Together the three golden lions create an almost impervious community that carries on the history and legend of Triple Lion for generations to come.

Amber Dragon

The Amber Dragon Series is for knights who are not afraid of dragons. The dragon has its name from its characteristic red colour which is reminiscent of glimmering amber.

Dragon knights need to have their equipment in order when working with an Amber Dragon and protecting their castles. Although dragons can be useful when fighting the enemy, they are also unpredictable and difficult to tame – and the amber dragon is no exception.

Maltese

The Maltese Series has its origins in the order of knighthood that was entrusted with Malta in 1530. Their duty was clear: they had to protect European landowners against sea-robber states. Throughout the centuries the order of knighthood protected Malta and preserved its sovereignty. Today, the knights are simply called Maltese Knights and the story of their heroic deeds and ideas lives on today.

Liontouch Philosophy

Here at Liontouch we think that sword play comes as naturally to children as kicking a ball.

Throughout history children have wielded swords in imaginary battles and fought off make-believe enemies. It is with that in mind that we believe our active fantasy toys represent at once a truly classic and yet very modern play experience that will appeal to children everywhere.

Golden Eagle

The Golden Eagle Series concerns an ancient knight clan who fought the battle of the century ages ago. The knights' castle was under attack and it seemed that they would not be able to ward the attack off, when suddenly a golden eagle appeared out of the blue and attacked the enemy's army commander. In a moment of confusion and chaos the knight clan counterattacked, turning the battle on its head. The knight clan has been known as Golden Eagle since then and no one has ever tried to attack a Golden Eagle since.

Fantasy Line Flame

The Flame Line is made on the basis of an ancient and magical fire that never burns out. Legend says that the core of the sword and shield contains a dragon talon and that the sword, therefore, has the same magic as fire-breathing dragons. Both the sword, shield and cloak can reach extreme temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees so it's important to be careful when you embark on new adventures.

Viking Line Harald

The Viking Series has its roots in Danish Jutland in the year 800, where the most famous Nordic Viking chief, Harald, lived. Harald was not just a feared warrior who protected his clan, he was also an experienced sailor who travelled far and wide. He brought huge treasures home as well as stories about foreign people whose ability to fight would make every Viking laugh out loud. Harald's raids made the world live in fear of the Vikings and his legacy lives on today.

The Liontouch Process

Our understanding of product development and control of the entire process, from concept to final production, is what makes Liontouch exceptional. Since we first started making swords and shields in 1995, we have become the industry leader in the quality foam toys category.

All Liontouch products start as an idea. We then conceptualize it by making hand drawings until we settle on a final design.

The manufacturing then takes place in China at one of our long-term factory partners. They carefully cut the shape out of the foam block, silk screen print them and glue the layers together for optimal stability.

After quality control and safety test, the products are shipped to Denmark, from where we distribute them all over the world together with our wholesalers and partners. All so that a happy child somewhere will have a quality toy from Liontouch that will spark their imagination and last for a long time.

PIRATE LINE

Captain Cross

Captain Cross is a tough pirate who you do not want to mess with.
His name stems from his motif - a skull and crossbones with two sabres crossing blades.

Before the captain became a pirate, he was an admiral for a large navy, so he knows better than anyone how to keep the canons clean and the crew in place.

Captain Cross is notorious on the seven seas for his countless raids and his many golden treasure chests that are buried across the globe.

Pirate Red Stripe

The Captain Stripe Pirate Series is for the friendly pirate. After a shipwreck Captain Stripe is stranded on a deserted island and must try to survive with the things that were washed ashore from the shipwreck. Although the captain is friendly, a pirate must be prepared for anything, as unexpected danger could always be lurking just around the corner.

Z-Bandit Line

The Z-Bandit is a masked avenger who appears at night.

No one knows who this mythical knight is, as he works at night, wearing a midnight-black cloak, mask and hat so no one can recognise him.

The Z-Bandit serves the people and fights powers of evil, injustice and oppression. He has countless enemies who wish to harm him, and the Z-Bandit must, therefore, constantly work on being one step ahead.

Samurai

Samurai is Japanese and means "to serve someone" and for samurai warriors this was crucial to maintain their honour and loyalty towards the master they served.

The history of the samurai begins in Japan in the 8th century, when local clans fought for survival and against threats from the outside.

PRODUCT SAFETY

LIONTOUCH toys carry the CE mark which is our guarantee that the products comply with the European legislation and therefore, are safe for children to play with.

EN 71 Toy Safety Standards are fundamentally applied to presume compliance with the European Toys Safety Directive.

EN 71-1: Mechanical and Physical Properties:

The properties of the toys are tested to ensure that the toy can cope with expected use without breaking and resulting in e.g. sharp dangerous edges, points and other risks of injury.

EN 71-2: Flammability:

The flammability of the toys is tested in order to ensure that the materials do not burn easily or rapidly. This is especially of great importance for textile toys and in particularly items that are to be worn on the head.

EN 71-3: Chemical migration of Certain Elements:

All the materials and ingredients used in the toys are tested to ensure that the toys do not release toxic elements that can harm the child which may put the toy into the mouth.

The European Toy Safety Directive's restrictions are of course further met, e.g. related to:

- Formamide

LIONTOUCH toys do not contain any fragrances as those chemicals often have allergenic properties.

The European Chemical Regulation, REACH, and the POP Regulation's restrictions on Persistent Organic Pollutants are carefully followed and met on e.g. restrictions of:

- Phthalates
- Azo colourants
- Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons (PAH)
- Organotin
- Short Chained Chlorinated Paraffines (SCCP)

Note that the above requirements shall in general by legislation be met by all toys put on the market in the EU.

For the United States of America, we cooperate with our customers to ensure compliance with relevant legislation and standards, examples are:

U.S. ASTM F963:

- Physical and Mechanical Test
- Flammability Test
- Soluble Heavy Elements Test
- Total Lead Content

U.S. CFR Title 16 (CPSC Regulations), Part 1303 – Total Lead content in surface coating

U.S. Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act 2008 Title I, Section 101

- Total Lead Content in Surface Coating
- Total Lead Content in Non-Surface Coating Materials (Substrate).

U.S. Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act 2008 Title I, Section 108

- Phthalate content.

California Health and Safety Code, Part 3 of Division 104, Chapter 11 (AB1108) - Requirement on phthalates.

LIONTOUCH®

The No. 1 brand of pretend play foam toys

The best quality Toys for active play

Liontouch products are made to stimulate and to last hours of active play. Liontouch products are not just for a party, they can bring fantasies to life time after time.

The best design Toys for imaginative play

Liontouch products embed a high level of detail, graphics and design features. This way Liontouch products maximise inspiration for imaginative play.

Safety first Toys for responsible play

Safety is the top priority at Liontouch. Our safety standards meet, and well exceed the European CE safety regulations.

Repair Repair, don't replace

Even though Liontouch products are durable, sometimes the foam layers need a bit of glue. Regular household glue will do just fine and when it's dry, the playing can continue.

Liontouch and sustainability

At Liontouch we are aware of how we can contribute to a more sustainable world. Therefore, we want our products to last – and to last long. To do away with the throw away mentality is a key element in the transition to a more sustainable consumer culture. We strive to make products that potentially can be passed on from one sibling to another, not products that are only good for a short time.

Though the quality of Liontouch is high, of course the products are not indestructible. After all, they are just toys. The most common problem is that the outer layer lets go of the layer beneath, but that can easily be fixed at home. Just give it a little bit of household glue, interlock the layers and when the glue is dry, it's ready to go again. If you have experienced any other issue, please let us know so we can optimize future products. We always appreciate feedback.
